CONSTANTINOPLE: Way back in the Fall of 1905, the Turkish government issued a warning to the powerful forces of England. But alas, when high on their mountain, they ignored the murmurings of those below. Their swift decline in power should now convince the English that Turkey was right. Unfortunately it is a most difficult way to learn a lesson. Bolshevism must be stopped!

CONSTANTINOPLE: Newspapers are blaming headlines about "Peace"; talk is widespread; rumor has it that a treaty may be arrived at between France and Turkey. Perhaps the future will bring a great new era of peace, prosperity, and understanding. Meanwhile the war continues.
